

MAJOR SMITH AND COMPANIONS NOW AWAIT WELCOME

Prepare at Hotel for New York's Reception This Afternoon

COMPARATIVELY QUIET Thousands Expected to Line Streets, However, As The Quartet Passes By

By James L. Kilgallen
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, June 27.—Elated over their successful flight from Ireland to New York, even though forced to make one stop at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, Major Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions of the Southern Cross rested at their hotel here this morning in preparation for the official greeting which the city of New York was to extend to them at one o'clock this afternoon.

It was to be a comparatively quiet reception, lacking the pomp and hurrah of the Broadway parades that have turned out for Lindbergh, Byrd, Chamberlin and other celebrities. At the request of the flyers—modest men, all of them—the harbor pageant, the triumphal procession up Broadway and other ostentations have been eliminated from the program.

Instead the handsome Kingsford-Smith, who has flown over two oceans, his navigator, Captain J. Patrick Saul, who was loaned to him by the Irish Free State air force, his co-pilot, the sharp-featured Evert Van Dyk who was recruited from the Dutch East Indies flying service and the courageous radio operator, J. W. Stannage, a baldish South African, will be driven from the Hotel Roosevelt to the City Hall where they will receive medals and the city's scroll of honor from Mayor James J. Walker.

Undoubtedly, however, there will be thousands of people on the streets as they motor to City Hall, and they are certain to come in for more ovations, such as they received when they landed at Roosevelt Field at 7.30 o'clock last night. After the City Hall ceremonies they all will be the guests of the Advertising Club at a luncheon.

Major Kingsford-Smith and his companions will long remember the wild reception they received at the hands of the 10,000 spectators who assembled at Roosevelt Field and welcomed them last evening. The crowd broke through the police lines and almost mobbed the trans-Atlantic flyers. In the excitement, the reception committee headed by Grover A. Whalen, and including Sir Ronald Lindsey, the British ambassador, was swept aside and almost trampled down. It was one of the most unruly crowds that ever witnessed a landing of a famous ship at Roosevelt Field.

Many of the 300 special police were bowled to one side by the throng that broke through the ropes and rushed to acclaim Kingsford-Smith and his three companions. Hats were lost and clothes torn in the melee. It was a near riot. The crowd was so unmanageable that Kingsford-Smith and his crew did not dare leave their ship for twenty minutes after it landed.

When they did leave their plane they were almost trampled down by the cordial, albeit decidedly disorderly mob. It took the police almost half an hour to get them away from the hands of the crowd. And when this was accomplished Kingsford-Smith was able to tell newspapermen his reactions to his hop from Ireland across the Atlantic.

"It was a tough job, and one which we got out of luckily," he said ruefully. "I'm disappointed naturally, that we didn't make New York without a stop, but I believe if we were to try it again we would make a better job of it. We learned a few things."

Major Kingsford-Smith attributed the success of the east-to-west flight over the North Atlantic to "careful preparations."

"My next flight will be to get married," said Kingsford-Smith, in response to another question. He declared that in two or three days he expected to head westward for Oakland, Calif., in the Southern Cross to complete the ship's tour of the world. Then he is going to Melbourne, Australia, where he will be married to Miss Mary Powell in September. He will make the trip from the Pacific Coast to Australia by boat.

The radio operator, Stannage, said he would not have missed the "thrill" of the trans-Atlantic flight "for anything in the world."

"But," he added, with a smile, "next time someone else can make it. I don't care to do it across the Atlantic again."

Kingsford-Smith attributed the fact that the lives of all four flyers were saved to the successful handling of the radio by Stannage.

Van Dyk, the co-pilot, said the flight was "great" but next time he will be "willing to cross the Atlantic by boat."

Captain Saul had little to say. He was tired and happy—like the others. He did say, however, that he would like to try it again.

Potentialities of River Are Told The Rotary Club

Thomas B. Stockham, mayor of Morrisville, and an enthusiastic booster for the Delaware River and the entire Delaware Valley, addressed the Bristol Rotary Club yesterday afternoon on the potentialities of the Delaware River.

The talk given by Mayor Stockham was concise and dwelt upon the future of this section of Bucks County.

Mayor Stockham urged the fixing of bulk-head lines and gave it as his opinion that the entire section stretching from Morrisville to Bristol would one day be one entire municipality.

"The population of Bucks County is about 100,000 and that of Mercer County is 160,000. This entire section of which you are a part is soon going to be very thickly populated both industrially and as regards residences.

"We regret the inroads of the sand companies but have agreed with them that their excavations are to be 30 to 35 feet deep and with this scheme followed out there is going to be in time a separate channel from Tullytown to Morrisville."

The speaker exhibited a map to show the course of the river and he gave a most interesting and informative talk.

CONGRESSMAN PORTER SUCCUMBS EARLY TODAY

Leader in Fight to Control Distribution of Drugs; Ill Two Months

HAD AN ACTIVE LIFE

PITTSBURGH, June 27.—(INS)—Congressman Stephen G. Porter, leader in the fight to control world-wide distribution of habit forming drugs, died early today in Allegheny General Hospital.

His death was due to cirrhosis of the liver.

Congressman Porter was stricken ill two months ago on shipboard while returning from London. He had been a patient at the hospital since June 11, and, previous to that time, was confined in Walter Reed Hospital at Washington.

At the bedside when the end came were L. K. William and Clarence D. Porter, nephews; Miss Rosetta Porter, a niece; former police magistrate, E. R. Hough, and Mrs. Hough, and Mr. and Mrs. John Hamshur. Mrs. Hough and Mrs. Hamshur were nieces of the Congressman.

His wife died 10 years ago.

Congressman Porter had represented the thirty-second Pennsylvania district since 1910, served as chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives for years and had taken a leading part in national and international negotiations for control of narcotics.

The law establishing a Federal bureau for the control of habit-forming drugs was signed by President Hoover since Congressman Porter was admitted to the hospital here.

The Congressman's only daughter, Mrs. Richard S. Baron, was enroute from Rhode Island to her father's bedside when the end came.

Congressman Porter had been in a coma for some time previous to his death and hope for his recovery gave way early this morning when physicians at the hospital reported their patient was "steadily sinking."

A cablegram was received at the hospital from Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese ambassador to London, expressing regret at the Congressman's serious illness, shortly before Congressman Porter died.

Congressman Porter and Dr. Sze had been associated in the narcotics conference at Geneva, Switzerland.

Since being brought to the hospital from Washington two weeks ago, the Congressman had received a gift of flowers, plucked from the White House conservatory, every other day from President Hoover.

OLD, PURPOSELESS CUSTOM OF NOISY FOURTH OF JULY IS FAST WANING, ALTHOUGH STILL FOLLOWED IN SOME SCATTERED LOCALITIES

Many Organizations Are Today Working to Discourage The Harmful Practices — Urge That Wisdom of Safe and Sane Day Be Realized

Fourth of July was formerly the busiest day of the year for hospitals and fire departments. It still is in some localities, but on the whole the old, purposeless custom of indulging in noisy and dangerous forms of celebration is fast waning.

In the past, children and even grown-ups spent the day reveling in noise and playing with powder, fire and smoke. Firecrackers, torpedoes, toy cannons, guns and fireworks of every size and description contributed in making the day a menace to life and property. This year many will spend the day in healthful recreation. Outdoor games, trips and tours, picnics, boating, fishing, hikes, parades and programs of appropriate exercises afford enjoyment without the danger of personal accident and fire loss to property caused by fireworks.

Fire prevention engineers, fire departments, fire insurance companies and health departments discourage the sale of holiday explosives for public use, recommending that they be limited to civic associations or other organizations and be discharged under the supervision of an expert.

Upon parents, teachers, public officials, business men and women rests the responsibility of protecting the lives of our children and of safeguarding our homes and communities against the possibility of disaster. There is but one solution to the problem of avoiding suffering on the Fourth of July. That is to substitute for an old-fashioned celebration one that is constructive and worthwhile, which promises more lasting benefits, is less expensive and more enjoyable in the end.

Every resident of this community should appreciate the wisdom of co-operating to make Independence Day safe against danger to life and property by fire.

NEWTOWN LAD ENTERS MARBLE SEMI-FINALS

Winner of Eastern League Championship in Race Again Today

SHOWS GREAT COURAGE

Winfield Hofmeister, twelve years old, of Newtown, Bucks county, who won the Eastern League marble championship, yesterday, at Ocean City, has entered the semi-finals taking place today in the race for the national championship.

So far the contest has been narrowed down to eight boys from the entire country, and the Bucks county lad shows great promise of surviving the acid test of the semi-finals, against the other seven best marble shots in the country.

Hofmeister took the honors yesterday by crowding out Haskel Ferguson, a thirteen year old colored boy, of Woodbury, N. J. In the three days of eliminations, he won seventeen games and lost seven, to win the right to represent Philadelphia, Bucks, Delaware, Chester and Montgomery counties in the national contest.

The boy was coached for his entry in the meet by Harry Burns, a Newtown business man, and he will receive the gift of a wrist watch from his league for his victory.

Hofmeister showed real courage in his final day, and was threatened with defeat when he developed a blister on his right hand, which greatly hampered his shooting. With this handicap he won six games in the final meet yesterday and lost two, still keeping ahead of the field.

EMILIE WINS FIRST GAME OF SECOND HALF

Defeats St. Ann's Nine by The Score of 14 to 2 in Twilight League Battle

HARD HITTING DID IT

Schedule for Tonight
A. O. H. versus FEDERALS

Result of Last Night
EMILIE, 14; ST. ANN'S, 2

(By T. M. Juno)

Emilie Y. M. A. won the opening game of the second half of the Bristol Twilight League, defeating St. Ann's to the tune of 14-2. The game was played on the "Saints" grounds. The Emiliettes began to lambast the ball in the very first inning and did not stop until Empire Elmer decided it was too dark to continue. At the time the game was called four more Emilie runs had dented the plate, making their total eighteen, but as the St. Ann's team did not receive its sixth time at bat the score is reversed back to the even inning, the fifth. Thus the score ended 14-2.

In the sixth inning a home run by D. Still, a double by F. Still, and singles by Satterthwaite and Watson were erased from the score book.

The leading hitters in the assault against the two St. Ann's hurlers were Satterthwaite with two out of three, Watson three out of three, and T. Praul with four out of four.

"Chickie" Fields, making his 1930 debut for the St. Ann's team, had a perfect evening with the stick, connecting for two singles and a double in three trips to the platter.

The other two St. Ann's hits were made by Di Tanna and Misera.

With Scordia on the mound for the Dorrance street boys, the Emilie team scored a run in the first. Carp was passed; Miller fanned; Carp was caught off first, Scordia to Tosti; Satterthwaite and Watson won passes to first base; Bruce singled to center, scoring Satterthwaite; Still forced Watson, Castor to Pico.

The lead did not last long, however, as the "Saints" scored two in their turn. Fields beat out a hit to third; Gilardi was hit with a pitched ball; Pico sacrificed; Watson to Miller; Oriola grounded to Still and was out at first, but Fields and Gilardi counted; DiTanna struck out.

Eight runs were chalked up for the Farmers in the second as the result of B. Praul's single to center; F. Still's double to left; T. Praul's double; Carp's pass; Satterthwaite's single; singles by Watson, Bruce and T. Praul combined with a pass to B. Praul and errors by Gilardi, Tosti and Di Tanna.

GIRL IS DROWNED WHILE IN BATHING WITH OTHER TOTS

Elizabeth Quigley, Aged 7, Meets Death in The Canal Here

NOT MISSED FOR A TIME

Brother and Sisters Find Her Clothes on Bank Later

A little girl in bathing with her two older sisters and a brother along with a group of other children back of the Grand Theatre was drowned late yesterday afternoon in the canal.

Elizabeth Quigley, 7, 610 Bath street, was the little victim.

Elizabeth, 7; Mary, 12; Rita, 11, and Joseph, 9, all left the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Quigley yesterday afternoon at about two o'clock to go bathing, just as they had done many times before.

The quartette reached the canal back of the Grand Theatre and were enjoying themselves along with a group of other youngsters, who daily bathe at the spot.

Elizabeth, according to her older sister, became frightened when stones were tossed into the water and was told by her to go home, which it was thought she had done.

When it came time for the other three to return to their home they found Elizabeth's clothes on the bank. "Elizabeth didn't go home and leave her clothes here," remarked the older sister. Then the three frightened children ran to their home and found that their little sister had not returned. The three along with the father hastened back to the swimming hole and the father began to take off shoes and stockings so that he could wade into the stream. Boys swimming there took up the search and within a few minutes came up with the body of the tot which was found on the bottom of the canal.

The limp little form was placed in a passing truck and rushed to the Harriman Hospital where nurses and physicians worked like Trojans in an effort to revive life which had become extinct.

Funeral service will be held on Sunday at two p. m., from the home of the parents of the deceased. Burial will be made in St. Mark's Cemetery.

Find Tooth of Mastodon Inside of A Catfish

EVANSVILLE, Ind., June 27.—(INS)—A mastodon tooth weighing a pound and a half was found in the stomach of an 87½ pound catfish caught in the Ohio River near West Franklin, in Posey County, Indiana. This story was vouched for today by Professor Norman M. Grier, of Evansville College to whom the tooth was submitted for identification. The huge catfish was delivered to the L. A. Dameron fish market here where Dan Kaiser, an employee, began skinning and carving it up. As Kaiser cut the monster cat open he discovered a heavy fold of skin in the stomach region. Moved by curiosity he cut open the fold and the mastodon tooth was revealed. Part of the wall of the stomach had grown around the tooth in such a manner that the entire tooth was inclosed in a jacket of itself.

"Think of the stomach ache that fish must have had," Kaiser reflected. Professor Grier said the fish might have picked up its strange meal anywhere in this vicinity as the mastodon remains are not uncommon in the Ohio Valley.

Howard Frell, of Mahanoy City, is passing the summer months with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tanner, of 231 Lafayette street.

REX AND LADY FEATURE IN GREAT LOVE AFFAIR

By Frederic A. Chase
International News Service Staff Cor-respondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 27—One great romance here hasn't received its proper share of publicity. It is the love of Lady, the beautiful white mare, for Rex, "King of Wild Horses." And the sad part of it is that, while Rex is perforce, faithful—he is indifferent to her.

Lady just can't get along without Rex. If they take him out to the grassy enclosure where he trains for talking, picture roles, without also taking country mare when she met Rex, who is several years her senior, and whose past certainly compares favorably with any horse Lotharios. That was in 1924, when Rex met Lady. At first, he was interested and he still is fond of her, for that matter. But Lady devel-oped a grand passion for the great chestnut stallion, with his fine mane and flashing eyes. The six years in which they have been mated only have whetted her desire.

Their stalls are adjacent, and Lady spends much of her time nosing along the bars separating her from Rex. Lindall says the two horses kiss each other through the bars. But when I was there, Lady was eagerly waiting to be kissed and Rex was indifferently munching on some hay in the cor-ner.

Perhaps that fact should establish Rex as the greatest horse lover on the screen today.

Lady won't have anything to do with other equines. A bold stallion, meandering about the stable ventur-ed to poke his head into Lady's stall while the trainer and I stood talking. Suddenly a scream broke the silence, and the venturesome stallion beat a hasty retreat, while Lady thrust her angry head over the stall gate, taking an energetic nip at the insulter's hind-quarters, as he ran.

Lindall says he never saw anything like the affair between Lady and Rex. He has seen horses display a certain fondness for each other, and it is commonplace that a herd will separate into groups, but Lady's love for Rex seems to be eternal and all-en-compassing.

In fact, the mare's affection for her mate would make some of the other Hollywood romances look sick, he opined tacitly implying the divorce situation.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wheeler, of 633 Mansion street, had as a week-end guest, Thomas Hamol, of Phil-adelphia.

Miss Doris Mount, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Mount, of Glen-dale, Long Island, is paying a week's visit to Miss Ruth Weik, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Weik, of 210 Jefferson avenue.

Mrs. Leon Kewberry, of Long Branch, N. J., has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ferry, of Washington street, Mrs. Kew-berly's visit was occasioned by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Ferry.
